

Social and Personal

October 3 is the date set for the marriage of Miss Margaret Ellen Chewing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Chewing, and Malcolm J. Rawlings. The ceremony will take place at the country home of the bride's parents, "Mountain View," in Louisa County, and a number of Richmond people will attend the wedding. Miss Chewing is an unusually pretty girl, and has been much admired here. Mr. Rawlings is a son of the late Lewis Porter Rawlings and Jellis Scott Rawlings, of this city.

After an extended wedding journey, Mr. Rawlings and his bride will make their home in Lynchburg, where the former resides.

Returned From Abroad.
Miss Marie Stuart Smith returned to her home in Richmond last night, having spent the past three months traveling in Europe. Miss Smith accompanied Dr. and Mrs. Charles Gardner and their daughter, Miss Claudia Gardner, and traveled with them through Scotland, England and France, before sailing for this country. Dr. and Mrs. Gardner and Miss Gardner went at once to their home in Louisville, Ky., and Miss Smith has been the guest of Mrs. Alexander Gordon Black in New York City for the past week.

Of Interest Here.
Says a Baltimore exchange:

"Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morton to the wedding of their niece, Miss Lillian Dorsey Farnham, to Arthur Cleveland Montell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Montell, on Saturday evening, October 5, at 6 o'clock at St. Bartholomew's Protestant Episcopal Church. The ceremony, which will be performed by Rev. Dr. Bosley Murray, will be followed by a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morton, 1515 Linden Avenue. Miss Farnham will have as her bridesmaids, Miss Helen M. Coates, of Morristown, N. J., and her maid of honor will be Miss Sophie Briscoe Norris. The best man will be Alexander Boyd Harvey, and the ushers will include Edgar Whitting Montell, Charles Norman Bennett, Egbert Singleton Montell, Allen Bowen German and Bennett Briscoe Norris. "After a wedding journey, which will

Art Club Open.

The Art Club of Richmond, which has been closed during the summer months, will be thrown open for the season on Monday morning at half-after 9 o'clock. The Tuesday afternoon lectures and teas, which formed such a delightful part of the club entertainments last winter, will not be resumed until after the first week in November.

Stay-at-Home Whist Club.

The Stay-at-Home Whist Club met on Monday evening at the residence of Mrs. Bland Spotswood Smith, 391 East Grace Street. The highest score was made by Mrs. Gilman and John Tyler. Mrs. Smith will entertain the club again at her home on next Monday evening.

Stanhope-Walker.

A wedding of great interest here occurred Wednesday evening at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Lynchburg, when Miss Maude Miller Walker became the bride of Lieutenant-Commander Chas.
S. Stanhope, of Norfolk. The church was decorated with palms, ferns, goldenrod and cathedral candles. The ushers were Charles M. Hatcher, William E. Walker, James B. Miller, George Richardson, Clyde Jennings and Charles Rucker, all of Lynchburg. The groomsmen and bridesmaids were Miss Mabel Wing, of Norfolk; Samuel H.
Scott, of Lynchburg; J. K. Waterman, of Norfolk; Miss Elizabeth Walker, of Lynchburg; B. F. Mitchell, of Norfolk; Miss Elizabeth Hatcher, of Lynchburg; Elmer Wing, of Norfolk; Miss Blanche Walker, of Lynchburg; Doctor Richard Simpson, of Richmond.

Mrs. Richard Simpson, of Richmond, was matron of honor, and little Jack Walker acted as ringbearer. The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, R. S. Walker, by whom she was given away. She was met at the chancel by the groom and his best man, William Stanhope, of Norfolk.
The bride wore a gown of white lace over white satin, made with court george. Her veil was caught with orange blossoms, and she carried a snow-white bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Richardson's gown was of white lace over yellow charmeuse, and she carried a shower of asparagus ferns. The bridesmaids' gowns were white charmeuse with pinnars of yellow chiffon. They carried bouquets, of goldenrod and wore gold bands around the hair, with aigrettes. The groom wore the full dress uniform of the service. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Edwin Carter and Dr. Dunn. After an extended trip to Toronto, Montreal and Quebec, Lieutenant-Commander and Mrs. Stanhope will be at home in Norfolk about October 1.
Pretty Wedding.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was solemnized Wednesday evening at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W.
Holt, in South Richmond, when their daughter, Miss Ruth Miller Holt, became the bride of Charles Mervyn Park, also of South Richmond. The Rev. Decatur Edwards, of Clifton Street Baptist Church, was the officiating clergyman. The bride was becomingly attired in a going-away gown of blue cloth. Miss Maude Clarke, of Rocky Mount, N. C., attended her cousins as maid of honor, wearing a gown of gold crepe de chine over messalin. Linwood Park attended his brother as best man, and others in the wedding party were Miss Mary Clarke, of Wakefield, Va., wearing a gown of white crepe de chine over messalin; Harry Morrisett, of South Richmond; Miss Fannie Nunnally, of Green Bay, wearing a gown of mar-quessette over messalin, and the bride's brother, Linwood Holt. The parlor was decorated for the occasion in goldenrod and palms. The groom holds a high position with the Atlantic Coast Line in Richmond. Mr. and Mrs. Park left on the night train, visiting points in the South. After their return they will be at home, 2405 Hull Street, South Richmond.

Opening Musical.
The opening musical of Miss Fannie M. Taylor's music class for this session will take place on Friday, October 5, at Miss Taylor's studio, 111 North Twenty-ninth Street. The recital will be a very interesting one, and an attractive program has been arranged for the occasion.

In and out of Town.
Miss Beverly Leake has returned to her home in Birmingham, Ala., after a visit to relatives in Richmond.

W. E. Adams, of 322 East Franklin Street, is spending the month of September at Buffalo Ridge Springs and Waynesboro.

Miss Bessie Kersey, who has been visiting relatives in Portsmouth, has returned to the city.

Miss Elizabeth Ryland is spending this month at Mountain Lake, before returning to Richmond.

Miss Maude Ford, who has been the guest of her aunt, Mrs. W. J. Tyler, in Staunton, for the past month, has returned to Richmond.

Mrs. Haskins Hobson and children have returned to their home at Forest Hill, after spending the summer with relatives in Powhatan.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Habington, who are motoring through New England, are now at Bretton Woods, N. H.

Mrs. W. R. Trigg and her daughters, Miss Robert Trigg and Barbara Trigg, will return from the North about the middle of October.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Adkins and their children, Frederick and Maria, were among the guests from Richmond attending the Moulton-Kennon wedding on Wednesday.

Mrs. Edward Gilchrist and little daughter have returned from a visit to Aibemarie County.

The Misses Morton, of Washington, are guests of Miss Esther Bryan, at her home in Richmond.

Mrs. Julian Sanford, of this city, is visiting relatives in Powhatan County for a few days.

Miss Emily Wade, of this city, is visiting Miss Mary Pilkinton at the University of Virginia.

F. G. Hana has returned to his home in Richmond, after spending some time in Staunton.

Miss Nellie Hiner, of Augusta County, came to Richmond on Tuesday to spend several months.

Travel-Peyton.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Newcastle, Del., September 19.—Miss Emma C. Peyton, of Richmond, was married to Dr. E. C. Favel, also of Richmond, here to-day. The ceremony was performed at the home of Dr. and Mrs. William Wertenbaker by the Rev. John Rigg, of Rivermont.
N. J., former rector of Emmanuel Protestant Episcopal Church, of this city.

STUDENTS AT HARD WORK.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Ashland, Va., September 19.—Since the action of the three upper classes passing resolutions to do away with all hazing, the students at Randolph-Macon College have settled down and appear to be doing hard work. Heretofore the freshmen have been kept in a constant state of fear because there was no set date for the "Fish Parade," and for weeks the new men would go to bed not knowing at what hour they would be called on to line up in their scanty night attire and parade the campus to the tune of thick paddles and to the great delight of the sophs.

Dr. Blackwell thinks that this step, which he has urged for some time, will not only help the college from the outside, but will greatly benefit the student body by eliminating all class distinctions, causing the men to work as a whole for the college and not for class honors.

Onancock High School Opens.

Onancock, Va., September 19.—The Onancock High School opened Monday with an enrollment of 246. The principal, Jeff F. Walter, of Onley, has resigned to accept the secretaryship to Congressman William A. Jones. The board is in correspondence with several young men and the appointment will be made in a few days.

DANGER MARK NOW PASSED

In Condition of Mrs. Hibbs, According to Advice From Morton's Gap.

Morton's Gap, Ky.—"I was taken sick and confined to my room and I feel most of the time for ten months," writes Mrs.
Louise E. Hibbs, of this place.

"I had ulcers and then a tumor. The second doctor who treated me said the last chance was an operation to remove the tumor, and when the third doctor was called in he told me it was serious and that it was doubtful if I would recover.

I couldn't consent to the operation, so I decided to try Cardui. When I had taken two bottles I felt better. In two months I could go about and do light house work.
Now I feel well and the tumor is gone.

I do heartily recommend Cardui to suffering women. I am sure it will cure."

Cardui acts gently on the womanly organs, and has a strengthening effect on the entire womanly constitution. For over half a century Cardui has been successfully used by many thousands of women for the numerous ailments peculiar to their sex, also as a general tonic, for building up their strength.

So, if you suffer from any of the ailments so common to women, or if you need a good tonic to build up your strength—don't wait longer, but do as they do—take Cardui. Begin to-day.

It will surely help you as it has so many others.

V. M. I. CROWDED TO ITS CAPACITY

No Further New Men Can Be Taken Until There Are Vacancies.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Lexington, Va., September 19.—Owing to the fact that accommodations for cadets are entirely exhausted, the superintendent of the institute has been forced to announce that in the future he will be able to take new men only to fill vacancies. To-day there are 357 cadets in the barracks present for duty. Two more are expected tomorrow, making the total number 359.
This is the capacity of the barracks and of the mess hall. In the future therefore there will be a waiting list at the institute, and new men will be accepted only when for some cause old ones leave.

The board of visitors has been in Lexington for the past few days attending a called meeting. Several matters of interest were decided. The New Market statue, which was temporarily moved to a position in front of the library, will now occupy a position on the roadway opposite the guard retard. Under a stone crypt will be constructed, and in this crypt will be placed the bodies of the five New Market cadets now buried in the cadet cemetery. The remainder of the bodies interred there will be moved to the Virginia Military Institute lot in the city cemetery. The removal and reinterment of the bodies will take place as soon as the vault for them is ready.
The members of the board of visitors expressed themselves as very much pleased with the improvements which have been going on all summer and fall, under the direction of Colonel Jones as engineer. Nothing now remains to be done except to put in the roadway around the new extension.
The exact location of this driveway will be determined later. It was decided to widen the entrance to the grounds, and work on this will commence at once. The grading for the tennis courts is finished, and they will probably be in shape for use about the last of the month.

The corps now in the barracks is the largest in the history of the institute at this time of the year. Not only is this true, but the men are on the average older than ever before.
The average age has not been determined, but it is thought by those in a position to know that it is about eighteen years. The classes in regard to numbers stand as follows: First class, 38; second class, 87; third class, 139; fourth class, 102.

The appointments in the faculty for this year are Captain R. C. Snidow, of Pembroke, assistant professor of history, and A. H. Ellyson, of Norfolk, assistant professor of mathematics and physics.

Colonel J. C. Wise, of Richmond, the new commandant, and Colonel H. W. T.
Eglin, U. S. C. A. C., the new army detail and professor of military science, reported to the superintendent for duty some time before the opening of school and have been actively engaged with their military duties ever since.

Barrow-Hudson.

Norfolk, Va., September 19.—Epworth M. E. Church, South, was the scene of a brilliant marriage at 6 o'clock this evening, the parties to the contract being Miss Fannie Forrest, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Hudson, of 615 West Raleigh Avenue, and Walter Wright Barrow, of Farmville. A profusion of ferns, evergreens and potted plants decorated the church.

The bride, gowned in a Morris dress of duchess satin embroidered with pearls and trimmed in real lace, came in with her father, and was given away by him; the matron of honor, Mrs. Benjamin White, of Greenboro, N. C., sister of the bride, wore a white lace robe embroidered with pearls; the maid of honor, Miss Fern Hudson, also sister of the bride, wore a chalk dress robe over buff satin; the bridesmaid, Miss Aileen Akers, of Tampa, Fla., wore a gilt robe over green; the flower girl, Miss Margaret Harmon, of Tasewell, Va., wore pink charmeuse.

The groom came in with Paul S.
Barrow, of Farmville, his brother and best man, and was attended by the following groomsmen: Frank Richardson, of Richmond; William M. Hudson, of Norfolk; Johnston Wootton and Frank Verser, of Farmville. The ushers were Frank Baggett, of Atlanta, Ga.; John Foote, of Farmville; John H. Dyer and J. Gray Paullett, of Farmville. The Rev. T. A. Smoot, D. D., pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. Professor Horace Jones presided at the organ, and "For You Alone" was sung by Miss Silence immediately preceding the service.

Following the ceremony, the newly-wedded couple took the 7 o'clock boat for Northern points of interest, where they will spend several weeks, returning in early October to Farmville.

Engagement Announced.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Bedford City, Va., September 19.—Mr. and Mrs. George W. Johnson announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Mamie Estus Johnson, to William Saunders Garrett, to be celebrated at high noon Thursday, September 26, at the Methodist Church.
Rev. W. W. Lector, D. D., pastor of the bride, will officiate. The bride-elect is an accomplished young woman, and is very popular here at her home and wherever she has visited.

Mr. Garrett, a native of Rocky Mount, Franklin County. He now holds an important government position at Empire, Canal Zone, Panama.

After a brief wedding journey they will return here for a visit to the parents of the bride, before leaving for Panama.

Saturday afternoon Misses Bessie and Clara Ellis, cousins of the bride-to-be, will give her a shower party at their home in Richmond.

LADY ESSEX ARRIVES IN AMERICA ON VISIT

Formerly Miss Grant, of New York, and at One Time Engaged to Earl.

BY LA MARQUE DE FONTENAY.
LADY ESSEX, who has just arrived in this country from England, on board the Baltic, for the first time in many years, was formerly Miss Adeline Beach Grant, of New York.
Prior to becoming the second wife of the Earl of Essex, she was engaged to the late Earl Cairns, formerly known as "Gumbo," owing to the courtier's title of Lord Garmoyne, which he wore prior to his accession to his earldom.
But she broke off the match on the eve of the wedding, and after the completion of the troussaint, owing to his preposterous demands for pecuniary settlements upon himself.

Lady Essex at one time hoped to benefit largely under the will of the late Lady Meux, who was through her marriage a near relative of Lord Essex.
But Lady Meux, a former music hall favorite, instead of leaving them the bulk of her property, cut them off with a nominal legacy, and selected as heir to her great fortune and estates, one who was in no wise related to her, namely, Lord Durham's sailor brother, Admiral Sir Hedworth Lambton, of Ladysmith siege celebrity. She explained her testamentary disposition with regard to Lord and Lady Essex by the assertion in her will that neither of them had ever known how to respect her wish due consideration and respect. The late Lady Meux had committed her property on the death of her husband, Sir Henry Meux, the London brewer.

Admiral Sir Hedworth Lambton, according to the terms of the will, has been obliged to assume the name of Meux instead of his own, and now known as Admiral Sir Hedworth Meux, commands-in-chief the great naval station and stronghold of Portsmouth.
His wife has all the magnificent jewels of the late Lady Meux, which some-years ago every one confidently expected would come to Lady Essex.

The ancestral home of Lord and Lady Essex is Cassiobury, in the heart of Hertfordshire, a beautiful place, which has been rented on several occasions to Otto Kahn, the New York banker, as its owners have not the money needed to keep up the property. It has been the residence of the Capel family, of which Lord Essex is the chief since the reign of Charles I., when Arthur Capel, who was raised to the peerage by his ill-fated master, as Lord Capel, married Elizabeth, sole heiress of Sir Charles Morrison, of Cassiobury, and thus came into possession of the latter. Cassiobury has, however, always been the residence of the great family, and no one would be so foolish as to suppose that the name of the land, and not only the name, but such in Domesday Book, but is known to have been the home of Cassiobury in the reign of the Roman Emperor Augustus Caesar, that is to say, nearly ten centuries before the compilation of Domesday Book.

The Capels were originally London merchants. The first one of any note was Sir William Capel, who was Lord Mayor of London in 1503. The first Lord Capel was beheaded by the followers of Oliver Cromwell for his loyalty to Charles I. and his son and heir, the first of the Capel Earls of Essex, met with an equally tragic fate. Having been lodged in the Tower of London on the suspicion of being concerned in Lord Russell's so-called "Fanatic Plot," he was found in his ungeon the morning with his throat cut; no one knew by whom.

Every student of French history knows about Empress Josephine, the consort of the First Napoleon. But few, even in France, are aware of her connection with the Capels. She was born in the little town of Poitiers, in France, and was the daughter of a French nobleman, and was never ennobled, and the only occasion on which she wore the crown of Queen of France, was when she was married in England. She lies buried in Westminster Abbey.

Daughter of Duke Amadeus III, of Savoie, she was married in 1771 to the Comte de Provence, grandson of Louis XV., younger brother of the ill-fated Louis XVI., and who died on the throne of France in 1824 as Louis XVIII. She was neither beautiful nor well formed, presented a striking law, Queen Marie Antoinette, proved utterly incapable of retaining the affection of even the ordinary attention of her husband, the Comte de Provence, and was so insignificant as to become an object of contempt to the brilliant courtiers of Versailles, who nicknamed her "the Piedmouste." Her husband was "Monseigneur," and she was "Madame."

When the revolution broke out, her husband fled abroad with a single attendant, via Mons, while she reached Switzerland with her lady-in-waiting, Mme. de Gournillon. But when she returned to France, she found her husband had found her place taken by his fair friend and Egeria, the lovely Mme. de Bailli, and on realizing that "Monseigneur" was no longer the man she had married, she paid more attention to Mme. de Bailli than to herself, she withdrew to Turin.

After the execution of Louis XVI., her husband proclaimed himself King of France, and on the official announcement of the death of the Dauphin in the Temple Prison, proclaimed himself King of France, as Louis XVIII. Josephine, the Comte de Provence, became King of France, but was shortly afterwards forced to quit her father's palace at Turin, owing to the advent of the French invaders.
From there she fled to Passau, and from there to Budweis, where she established herself in the leading inn of the place with Mme. de Gournillon. Her husband at the time had found refuge at Mittau, in the province of Courland, where Alexander had placed his palace at his disposal, and where Louis XVIII. was enabled through the generosity of the Emperor to make his headquarters.
The French emigre nobles. Eventually Queen Josephine rejoined him there.
But he declined to receive her faithful lady-in-waiting, Mme. de Gournillon, who at the instance of the King was expelled from Russia by the Muscovite police.

Josephine seemed to bring ill luck to her husband. At any rate, that was what he alleged. For not long after her arrival at Mittau, Emperor Alexander requested him to seek refuge in some other country, and the exiled monarch made his way with his wife and retainers to England, where he stayed first at Gosfield, in Essex, and afterwards, (1809 and subsequently) at Hartwell, in Buckinghamshire, where he was known as the Duke of Angoul-me. He was known as the Duke of Angoulême, but as the Comte de Lille.
In spite thereof, he insisted that court etiquette should be observed, just as if he were at Versailles.

It was at Hartwell that Queen Josephine succumbed to dropsy, and it was four days before her death that a complete reconciliation took place between the ill-matched couple, Louis once again imploring her pardon for all his unkindness and neglect, while she, before she expired, exclaimed that these last four days had been the happiest of her entire life.

Louis insisted that her obsequies should be celebrated with just as much pomp and ceremony as if she had died on the throne, and the English Government accorded her full sovereign honors. When she died, she wore a crown on her head, the English Cabinet Ministers, the principal dignitaries of the realm, the members of the re
